Shakopee, MN -- I'll Show Them gave 12,120 race fans something to cheer about on a soggy Father's Day at Canterbury Park. The six-year-old gelding, trained by Clay Brinson and ridden to victory by Bobby Walker Jr., set a new stakes record covering the six furlongs in 1:09.03 and winning by four and three-quarter lengths over the muddy main track. I'll Show Them is owned by Clay Brinson, William Buster and Mark Clemens.

"I knew that I wanted to stay close to the pace and in the clear," Walker Jr. said. "I didn't know how fast we were going, but at the top of the stretch, I was pretty confident I was getting paid."

I'll Show Them, claimed in December at Hawthorne Race Course for $14,000, has since won three of four starts and has amassed over $50,000 in earnings. He went to post as the favorite and returned $4.20 to win.

Some of Canterbury's leading connections teamed up to win the $50,000 co-featured Brooks Fields Stakes. Current leading trainer Mike Biehler, current leading rider Tanner Riggs and two-time defending champion owners Al and Bill Ulwelling worked together to bring home Stachys who covered the one mile in the off-the-turf stake race in 1:37.54. Stachys rallied from slightly off the pace for a one and three-quarter length victory over the favored Gleam of Hope. Stachys returned $9.20 to win.
